THAT ALL-OUT COMMUNITY effort in landscaping the San Tomas Expressway stretch from Budd to Camden was an outstanding example of what can be done in civic ventures with the cooperation of the citizens.

In less than two hours time more than 1000 trees and bushes were planted along the expressway. Almost 200 people, young, medium and old, took part in the plant-in.

The project was well-coordinated with Jeanette Watson and her group arranging for the volunteers and Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens, with Jim Pott, of the county public works department, taking care of the county activity.

The county public works department furnished the plants and pre-dug the holes while volunteer labor did the planting.

Especially impressive was the turnout of youngsters of high school and college age.

There was no goofing off or grousing.

The work was accomplished in a conscientitious and businesslike manner in record time.

That's a long hike down the pike, especially when one is carrying a shovel.

Or even a camera, like we were.

But it was good exercise.

SPEAKING OF EXERCISE, Bob Blonder, manager of Barclays Bank in town (formerly First Valley) recently took part, along with Len Edholm, manager of the CofC, in the "Bay-to-Breakers" 8-mile run from the old Ferry Building in San Francisco to the Cliff House.

There were 1308 entries in the race. Bob finished 318 which means, of course, that he was ahead of almost 1000 others, including Edholm. Len placed 586.

Both Bob and Len are members of the West Valley Joggers group and they got in condition for the big race by working out regularly several times a week, generally on the track at Westmont High.

Bob estimates he runs about 20 miles each week.

Blonder, who is treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, claims that lightweight individuals (he weighs in at about 135 pounds) have an advantage over the heavier guys in these long-distance runs. (He spots Len about 50 pounds, more or less.)

So he modestly claims that was the main reason he finished almost 300 places in front of Edholm.

It is generally conceded that the bigger guys, however, do have an advantage on the golf course.

At least, that seems to be indicated by the type of game we play. That's one of the many reasons we use to excuse our awful game.

But there is always a joker like Blonder that makes us squirm.

He is a top-notch golfer (He won last year's CofC tournament, among others.), but he maintains that his running has hurt his golf game.

His golf handicap "soared" to a 10 while he was preparing for the 8-mile jaunt.

So that's another reason why we don't intend to take up jogging.

Our golf handicap is so high now that, if it went any higher a special computer would be needed.

EVER SINCE FRED SAhadi decided to call the huge center at Bascom and Campbell avenues, "The Prune-Yard", there have been many who have indicated (by letter and orally) they thought the name was degrading or worse.

The critics seemed to think that a more suitable name could have been found for the development which is dominated by "The Towers".

Construction starts on new city hall

Civic leaders gathered at the site of Campbell's new city hall on North Central Ave. on Monday morning to officially participate in the groundbreaking ceremonies marking the start of Campbell's long-awaited $1 million civic center complex.

The first piece of equipment to move onto the city-owned parcel by Frazier Construction Co., was "cat" that will be used to get the site ready for the basic construction phase.

Frazier Construction Co., a Campbell-based firm, was the successful bidder for the job with a low bid of $779,000.

With land acquisition costs and other contingencies, the 28,000 square-foot city hall will exceed $1 million.

The contract was awarded to Frazier by a 3-2 vote of the City Council after considerable time was spent by city fathers in discussing whether all the bids should be rejected because they exceeded the city's anticipated budgetary estimates.

The majority of the City Council, in voting to accept the low bid of Frazier, indicated that they thought the city would be better off in the long run to go that route rather than to try to obtain new bids for a smaller city hall. They recognized, however, that it would mean a probable 19-cent tax hike for a two-year period to meet the deficit.

The start of construction of the city hall comes almost 32 months after the approval of the voters in October, 1967 of a bond issue of $835,000 to finance a new city hall.

During this 32-month interim, the first step was to acquire the 11 lots adjacent to the city hall on which the new city hall was to be constructed.

Complicating the acquisition problem was the decision to expand the proposed library (for which bonds were also approved in Oct., 1967) and to "separate" the library from the city hall. More property was needed for the library than had been originally GROUNDBREAKERS FOR THE CITY HALL --- It was groundbreaking time on Monday morning for Campbell's long-awaited $1 million civic center complex when the first earth-moving equipment moved onto the site on Central Ave. next to the present city hall. Frazier Construction Co., of Campbell has been awarded the contract for the job with a bid of $779,000. Bill Hedley, of Campbell, is the architect.

Council begins study

City eyes budget of $4.9 million

A proposed $4.9 million tentative budget for the City of Campbell for the next fiscal year will be presented by City Manager Bob Stephens to the City Council next Monday night, June 8.

A series of budget study sessions will then be scheduled for this month by the Council and before the final budget is adopted (in August after the assessed valuation is received), it is almost a foregone conclusion that many modifications will have to be made in the city's fiscal document that Stephens has drafted.

Although Stephens points out that the budget already has been slashed, more drastic cuts will be necessary, he emphasizes, in some areas just to raise the estimated reserve which the preliminary budget shows is far below the city's established minimum.

RESERVE LOW

The reserve, as indicated in the tentative budget, is anticipated to be only $4,590 at the end of the fiscal year. The city policy has been to peg this reserve at a minimum of $50,000.

The budget estimates that the city's gross revenues nesx the city's gross revenues next year from all sources will be $4,996,459 with expenditures of $4,259,660.

However, this $726,799 surplus includes "untouchable funds", such as $601,000 in street improvement bonds and other funds earmarked for special uses. Only $4590 of the "surplus" is in the general fund.

The anticipated revenues include income from the 19-cent tax hike that will be necessary to overcome the deficit in the city hall construction fund and also a three-cent increase for the special park bond retirement.

The revenues also include an estimated $318,500 reserve at the end of this fiscal year on June 30.

NO NEW PERSONNEL

In his budget message, Stephens reports that because of the city's current fiscal position, no new personnel for the city has been recommended. Stephens warns, however, that this will make it difficult to maintain the present level of city services.

A total of 11 new employees at a total cost of $113,910 has been recommended by department heads, Stephens notes. The police have asked for 3½, fire 3 and public works 2½.

NO TRIPS

The city manager, somewhat apologetically, also suggests, the elimination of all out-of-city meetings and conferences for councilmen, department heads and commissioners which totalled $18,285 the past year.

Stephens adds that, if additional revenues are projected, attendance at League of Cities meetings should be given high priority.

Assuming that no additional revenues are projected and no additions are made to the preliminary budget as presented by Stephens before the final budget is adopted, a tax rate of $1.89 per $100 assessed valuation will be necessary, based on an estimated $53,227,000 assessed valuation which will be released in July.

MANAGER'S MESSAGE

In the concluding statement in his budget message, Stephens reports:

"Our City is on the final giant step of completing its public works program which was authorized by the electorate in October, 1967. Inflation and a slow down of new construction, each with adverse effects on projected expenditures and revenues, necessitate drastic action if the City is to remain in a sound financial condition.

"The preparation and submittal of this budget has been both frustrating and heartwarming. It has been frustrat-

SHE'S THE WINNER---Len Edholm, manager of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, presents Mrs. Geri Steffenson with a plaque signifying that she was the winner in the spring membership drive of the CofC. Mrs. Steffenson topped all the male "pros" in the one-day drive by bringing in nine new members. Al LaPlante was in second place with four members while Ed Fabbri took third with three.

Edholm said that 25 members were obtained for a total of $1050 in membership fees.

New members included: Adata, Inc.; Michael L. Boyd, D.P.M.; Cambrian Printers; Campbell Plaza Bottle Shop; Carlson TV Repair; Carole's Flowers; Donut House; Economy Saw Shop; Ted Forsberg & Associates; Four-Star Travel Unlimited; Future Systems, Inc.; Hardline Companies; Linoleum Dick's; Monda Smith and Co.; Monex Firefighting Mfg. Yardstick expansion bothers residents

A proposed expansion of "The Yardstick", at 2110 S. Bascom, before the Planning Commission Monday night again drew the fire of the same residents in the area who had protested its prezoning and annexation a few weeks ago.

After considerable discussion, participated in by protesting residents, the Commission deferred action on the expansion plans until the July 6 meeting to allow time for a parking study to be made and also to have the plans revised pertaining to the loading and trash areas.

Bernard Alter, owner of "The Yardstick", had presented plans for approval that would add 5,800 square feet on the main floor and a mezzanine of approximately 4,500 square feet.

Involved in the discussion was the parking problem and the question of how much the parking lot across the street would be used by customers.

Five file for Campbell school district trustee

Five candidates have filed for trustee for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District in the special election that will be held on Tuesday, July 21.

Filing deadline was last Thursday, May 28.

The vacancy on the board was created with the resignation of John Merriell on March 31. Merriell, who has served for eight years and had been reelected for a new term in April, 1969, was president of the board when he resigned. Jim Gilliland was named president in his place and the board has operated with four members since March 31.

The election on July 21 will be the second special election of that nature held this year. On Feb. 17, Richard MacQuiddy was elected to the board to replace William A. Parton who had resigned. Other board members are Mrs. Eleanor Graham - Armstrong and Ralph Steinberg.

Under relatively new legislation, elections must be held to replace board members. Prior to the adoption of the legislation, appointments could be made to fill vacancies.

Three of those who have filed, Mrs. Judy Ruscigno, 1516 San Gabriel Way, San Jose, a housewife; George L. Talley, 3220 Jade, and S. David Dinno, 259 Old Adobe Rd., San Jose, an administrator, were also candidates in the Feb. 17 election.

The other two candidates are Owen D. Dimock, Jr., DDS, of 359 Phantom Ave., San Jose, a dentist; and Mrs. Joan D. Franks, 1108 Green Briar Ave., San Jose.

Editorial

A good use

One of the problems that almost always exists in the operation of any city-owned park is that there are never enough facilities available to satisfy all the needs of the citizens.

Obviously we are not referring to massive areas like Golden Gate Park in San Francisco or similar developments in other large cities.

We mean, of course, a park of the type that is represented by Campbell's Rincon Park, virtually undeveloped except for the Campbell-Moreland Pony League ball field.

At the present time, a landscape architect is drafting a master plan for that park as well as the neighborhood parks that are part of the park bond package that was approved by the voters in June, 1969.

The architect probably will make a valiant effort to include and locate in the parks the facilities that, in his opinion, will meet the desires as far as possible of the citizens as indicated in surveys of the citizenry.

It must be remembered, however, that it will not be possible to cram the area with all the facilities that people would like to have in the area.

It does not take a genius to recognize that park and recreational activities mean different things to different people.

Some people would prefer to have hiking trails only. Others would want bike pathways and others would want lawns and benches and tables for picnic areas.

Still others would desire ball fields.

This brings up an interesting point with which the City Council has become somewhat embroiled.

The only "going" facility at the park at the present time is the Campbell-Moreland Pony League ball field.

The field was laid out a number of years ago and was used in a haphazard manner for a period of time.

In the last few years, a dedicated group of Pony League supporters have improved the facilities (with official city sanction and help) at the park to such an extent that there now exists one of the finest Pony League ball fields in the entire Valley.

The field not only includes a turfed outfield and a high quality infield but also a "field house".

Almost all the labor that went into this development was purely volunteer. Much of the materials were donated.

But it has been a constant drain on the relative few dedicated individuals as far as the labor was concerned and, of course, there is always limit to contributions of material.

The City came to the financial rescue to the extent of more than $2000 in order that most of the facilities could be completed. In their half-finished state the facilities were prime targets for vandalism plus the fact that they were not being used and the weather was not helping their condition.

We agree wholeheartedly that the City has a responsibility to assist in the development of the ball field. We think it was a legitimate use of city funds to aid the Pony League people in completing the project.

Despite the fact that it can be claimed with some merit that it was an activity of just one segment of the community, the point remains that it is located on city property and, no matter how thin you slice it, it IS a city operation. Funds for the ball field development were taken from the bond funds which was right and proper.

The point is, of course, that the park bond money that will now be available as the result of the recent sale of $80,000 has been earmarked for the development of the eight neighborhood parks (at $10,000 each) at eight of the local schools. But it will be some time before the schools are ready with their projects.

The bulk of the park bonds remain unsold. (The first series that was sold was used to purchase the parcel of land that adjoins the original seven-acre Rincon Park.)

What we are saying, of course, is that the Pony League ball park is just one of the recreational facilities that will be permanently located in the park. The master plan, we understand, will specify that.

There will probably be a few people who will argue that the ball field takes up entirely too much space in the city park. They will maintain that better use of the area could be made that will benefit more people.

The Pony League ball field is now being used by hundreds of boys while we are still waiting for the master plan to be drafted. Even after the master plan is presented, it will be years before the park is developed to its fullest extent.

We maintain, however, that the Pony League is now a going concern and that for years it has been the main (and almost only) use that has been made of that particular city property.

We think there should be no major problem in developing the rest of the park facilities around the ball field and, if park bond money is available without jeopardizing the "neighborhood" plan, it would be money well spent to complete the ball field.

Some of the more extreme critics even have suggested that the city should take action to change the name to something more esthetic.

That, of course, is a ridiculous suggestion, for naming one's own property (or kids) is one's own bag.

The property (or kid) may be saddled with a lousy moniker for life but that's the responsibility of the party who does the naming.

As a matter of fact, the name "PruneYard" has grown on us.

At first we thought Fred was off his rocker, for the connotation sorta brings back memories of the "dirty little cannery town" that all of us have struggled to offset over the years.

But in this day and age of the urbanized sprawl covering former lush orchard lands, there is a definite need to recall those bucolic days of the past when "blossom time" in the Santa Clara Valley was nature's own fiesta in which there was no need for rock music or big names to attract crowds.

THAT IS PART OF OUR heritage.

As we have said, there have been many critics who opposed the name "PruneYard" for the attractive commercial center that is fast taking shape at Bascom and Campbell avenues.

As a matter of fact, this voiced criticism recently even reached the hallowed level of the Planning Commission

At a Commission meeting when Sahadi applied for approval of the plans for Phase II of the "PruneYard" center, Commissioner Frank Klein, who said he was voicing the opinion of a constituent, called attention to the full-grown olive trees that were being planted throughout the center.

Frank said that someone had questioned "why olive trees in a pruneyard?"

"Why shouldn't prune trees be planted," they wondered. "or otherwise call the joint "The Olive Yard".

Commissioner Thayer Lyons was the only other commissioner who bothered to get into the name-calling fray.

He called Frank's attention to the fact that olive trees and prune trees had a common heritage in the early orchards of the Valley, traceable to the original Spanish settlers.

At the time we thought that Klein, as a planning commissioner, was wandering pretty far afield into the orchards with his olive-prune colloquy.

We still do.

A FEW WEEKS AGO, WE were invited along with our Dorothy to view the film "M-A-S-H" that was showing in the Plaza Theater I.

We were guests of the Peninsula Adult-Youth Film Council, which is sponsored by the El Paradiso PTA Council.

According to Mrs. Marie Baker, our hostess, the council has a monthly review of films in the area (generally previews) attended by adults and teenagers.

The purpose is to create a dialogue between adults and the youth with respect to the movies of today.

After the show, they assemble to discuss the film in an open meeting in which an adult moderator attempts to ascertain the reaction of adults and youths alike to the movie they have just seen.

Apparently "M-A-S-H" was an exception to the general rule.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, IT was "R" rated (not acceptable under 17 without adults) and, in the second place, it was not a preview, as the movie had been running for several weeks.

The critique was held in a vacant store building under construction next to Plaza II where folding chairs had been set up.

We were interested observers of the group composed of about an equal number of adults and youths.

Our personal opinion of the show (which we didn't express at the time) was that it was a slapstick comedy dressed up (or undressed) with sexual overtones in which the military and medical profession are the targets.

An ancient approach to be sure, except that the barracks-room language vividly is presented in "M-A-S-H" for all to hear.

That's the new approach which apparently has tremendous box-office appeal today. That, in our opinion, was the measuring stick used by the producers.

So we thought it was all sort of silly to try to read "any message" into the film other than box office $$$.

A SURPRISING NUMBER of those at the critique, however, discussed the "message" they thought the film was trying to portray.

We jotted down a number of comments (from both adults and youths) which we present here without comment:

"It humanized the war—and medical profession".

"It showed that doctors are people".

"...Shattered concepts of regimentation..."

"...not realistic..."

"...too realistic, especially the blood..."

"...making fun of all..."

"...not making fun of the army, it was a satire...!"

"The football scene was slapstick...!"

"The show was not slapstick at all but had a message..."

"It weakened respect for authority..."

"Authority can be utterly ridiculous..."

"Language was new...to the point-blunt-natural-normal-real..."

Five year old supplies drugs; adults arrested

Police action during the last week included the apprehension of a man and woman on charges of using dangerous drugs and maintaining a place where narcotics were made available to others.

Arrested were Louise Raphael Avanti and Brooks Eugene Terhune, both of 1211 Robway Ave. The arrests were made after five-year-old Susan Avanti obligingly supplied three minor children with drugs which were turned over to police. A search of the premises resulted in the confiscation of a large supply of marijuana and other drugs.

William Striegel, 1313 Virginia Ave., was the latest victim of the "golf thief" who walked off with golf equipment valued at $145. The cart, bag and clubs were in an unlocked garage.

And Harris Fenn, 1501 S. Bascom Ave., was almost out of business before the new office opened with a calculator, valued at $875, was removed from the almost-completed structure.

night, the Commission approved a use permit for Alan Sims to convert an existing residence at 866 E. Campbell Ave. into an insurance office and also a use permit for Hans J. Sweig to convert three single-family dwellings (1905, 1915 and 1925 Winchester Blvd.) for office use. Commissioner Frank Klein opposed the issuance of permits in both cases.

Action on a third conversion application submitted by Lawrence Pereira for a residence at $80 N. Harrison, was deferred until June 15 to allow the applicant to present an area plot plan to scale.

The Commission also approved the plans submitted by Tommy Blackmum of Campbell Floral at 76 E. Campbell Ave. for a mansard roof for his building and also the plans for a trailer storage area adjacent to Hamilton Mobile Home Park submitted by Bob Keesling.

Approval also was granted Mrs. Ennid Munk for a 12x14 addition to an existing four-unit apartment at 166 Michael Dr., and the request of Leo Freschi for a six-month extension of time for plans of office/warehouse at 141 and 173 Sunnyoaks was granted.

Deferred until June 15 was the application of R. C. Montgomery for the construction of an office building at 480 McGlincey Lane in an industrial zone to allow for possible improvement of the landscaping plan.

The Commission also approved the plans for a contractor's storage yard at 293 Dillon Ave. which had been deferred from previous meetings while the permanent zoning of the area was established.

After a spokesman for the residents in the Friar Way sector had specified they had no objection to the proposed R-M zoning for the area adjacent to Friar Way which was being annexed to the city, the Commission quickly approved the zoning. The matter had been deferred from a previous meeting when the residents, a county "island" had objected to the zoning.

The Commission continued action on the request of Sutter Hill Development Co. at 850 W. Hamilton in order to clarify the definition of whether a proposed fence was a wall or a fence in order to determine how high (seven or six-feet) it could be.

The Commission also approved the tentative parcel map of Juarco Corporation which is developing the corner of Winchester and Campbell for a service station.

Approval also was given L. R. Guist, of 119 Calado, for a variance for a setback to allow the construction of a garage at the rear of his property which adjoins the Los Ranchitos Cabana Club. The club directors had no objections to the variance.

Deferred until June 15 was action on the proposed civic center zoning district in order for the staff to prepare an overlay to show how and where the civic center and north loop would affect the area.

planned. (It will be located on seven lots across the street (between Harrison and Central).

The expansion of the library was possible because additional federal funds were made available.

Action on the city hall was delayed for a period of about four months early in 1968 while the Council weighed the dramatic offer made by Fred Sahadi. Sahadi suggested that the City of Campbell use the first five floors of the 18-story office building at Campbell and Bascom avenues for the city hall.

Opinion of city officials, as well as the citizenry, was divided on the tower issue. However, before it was necessary to take any definite action, Sahadi withdrew his offer to the city.

"The Towers" since has been completed as a joint venture of Sahadi and Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel. The first tenants moved into "The Towers" in February of this year.

City officials point out that, although the 32-month delay has been frustrating at times, the bonds that the city sold to finance the city hall have drawn interest ever since they were sold which has added almost $150,000 to the funds available for city hall construction.

"It has been heart-warming because of the department heads' attitude of acceptance of a real crisis and their willingness to respond positively to budget reductions far above the norm of any previous year.

"The Citizens of Campbell have shown their confidence in City government by their actions at the ballot box for municipal bond improvements in 1967 and 1969.

Proposed undeclared war zone law fails to get youth support

By a 5-3 vote, members of the Campbell Youth Advisory Commission last week voted not to support pending legislation by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos which prohibits an inhabitant of California from serving in an undeclared war zone.

The speakers of the evening were Dennis Connors, representing Assemblyman Vasconcellos, and Robert Walker, executive director of the Santa Clara County Republican Central Committee. The meeting was attended by approximately 50 people.

The main arguments centered around treaty commitment, isolationism and the fact that Massachusetts is already testing it in the courts.

This forum on Southeast Asia is the first in a series of hearings to be held by the Youth Advisory Commission on matters concerning young people.

BofA purchases city park bonds

Bank of America bought $80,000 worth of Campbell municipal parks bonds last week.

Bank of America's bid, the only one received by Campbell's City Council, was 5.9939 per cent.

The $80,000 issue is the second increment of the $625,000 in parks bonds authorized by Campbell voters last June. The first increment of $325,000 was sold the following August to secure the Rincon Park acreage.

The $80,000 issue will allow the city to go ahead with its neighborhood park development plan along with eight schools in the city. The city has agreed to put up $10,000 for each of the eight schools in a joint development with the district, PTA's and Home and School Clubs.

Chicago strike hits Campbell bike dealer

BY CARL WINTHER

If you've been waiting for the Grand Opening of the Wheel-Away Cycle Center or a chance to buy a new Schwinn bike, don't blame Bill Paul or Jerry Bernstein of Wheel-Away.

It's out of their hands! The real culprit is the Chicago strike situation, according to the Schwinn people.

Summing up the situation, the Schwinn newsletter to dealers (including Wheel-Away) describes the tie-up this way; "National teamsters have settled on the $1.10 per hour increase over a three-year period with option to reopen if the Chicago unions settle for more. Chicago carriers refuse to give the $1.65 per hour demanded by local unions and neither side is showing any signs of deviating from its position.

"Politicians seem reluctant controversy with the strike to become embroiled in the controversy with the strike affecting Chicago only. Chicago papers carry very little on how it is affecting local firms and the personal hardships on union members.

"Our factory (Schwinn) worked five days last week and plan to continue a full five-day schedule. When component shortages occur, we will cancel those models affected from the order. Meanwhile, bear with us, if there's a way, we'll get your bicycles to you".

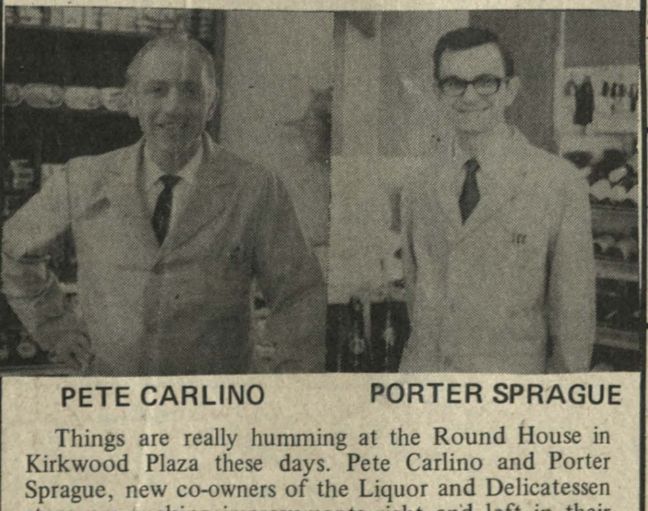
THIS WEEK'S SPOTLIGHT ON



PETE CARLINO PORTER SPRAGUE

Things are really humming at the Round House in Kirkwood Plaza these days. Pete Carlino and Porter Sprague, new co-owners of the Liquor and Delicatessen store are making improvements right and left in their unique establishment.

Newest project, now under construction is a sun-deck in the round to enlarge their dining area. Tables will be set along the windows to give diners an unusual view of the shopping center as they eat. It will undoubtedly be called the "Patio Diner". Pete, by the way, recently became a father for the sixth time, this one a son, Paul.

Girl Scouts

NEIGHBORHOOD #17

Girls from Junior Girl Scout Troop #861 planned a two night "in town" camping experience recently to the Palo Alto Scout House. The troop met in three patrols at their regular meeting place, St. Lawrence Episcopal Church 65 W. Rincon Ave., to arrange food, program and transportation for the trip. Cookie sales profit was used to finance the "fun in learning" new social situations.

Some inside, as well as outside, cooking was planned; in town hiking accomplished; and an "in uniform" visit made to see Miss Stark's private doll collection at the Doll House near the campsite as well as the Junior Museum. Special emphasis was placed on completing badgework for the Troop Camper Badge and the Sign of the Arrow.

Three fathers, Mr. Fujishin, Garcia and Dillon drove. Miss Margy Henderson, former leader of the troop accompanied the girls.

Members included Theresa Fujishin, Sally Austring, Kathy Covey, Sheryl Garcia, Debbie Gonzales, Linda Mason, Peggy Dillon and Dawn Wallace.

Michelle Carreon, Paula Pruett, Cindy Cridlebaugh, Julie Camarda, Jeanne Green, Denice Cobb, Lisa Jenco, Michelle Zucchetto and Susan Shoemaker.

Prospect Pulse

by IVALEE INGRAHAM

May 28 Prospect students demonstrated their concern over the environmental problem by staging SITE Day. SITE, which stands for Students Improving the Environment, was a day of discussions and films to educate the students to the problem and offer suggestions to improve the environment.

Morning sessions with speakers and films were required for all students. The student body was divided into four groups according to their last name initial. After lunch period, where students could buy an ecology lunch consisting of rice, fish and beans, the diet of much of the world, the students were free to choose two sessions from 20 offered.

Afternoon speakers came from such organizations as Zero Population Growth, PG&E, People for Open Space, Save Our Valley, Citizens Against Air Pollution, and many more. At the end of the day students met in their first period class to give an evaluation of the day.

Prospect's Student Council for the first semester next year were elected recently. Junior Ross Meinhold will be president, Lynne Brady, Gary Gagliolo and John Hubbard will be next year's Senior Councilmen, Cindy Porras will be the Junior representative, Steve Kulchin will be the Sophomore representative and a Freshman representative will be elected from the incoming class.

Seniors graduate June 15 on the football field, providing a P.A. system can be hooked up. Ceremonies are 4:30 in the afternoon, and afterwards the seniors can attend an All-Night Party held in Saratoga Lanes and the Brave Bull. Tickets are $8 for the party which lasts from 11 p.m. 'til 5 a.m.

New members of Prospect's Pink Panther Drill Team were selected May 19. The girls were judged on appearance, presence, marching and dancing. New Pink Panthers are Cathy Burke, Karen Era, Kathy Fazzio, Karen Henderson, Madge Nelson, Robin Milco, Sharon Miller, Jayne Palmquist, Sherrie Reineke, Debbie Reimer, and Vicki Smith.

CUHS produces S.P.L.A.T. show

The second annual Variety Show, produced by the Campbell High School students, will be presented Friday, June 5 at 8 o'clock at the Campbell High School auditorium.

Called S.P.L.A.T. (and the secret of what the initials stand for will remain a secret until curtain time), the hilarious show is open to the public. A $1 admission charge will be payable at the door.

The variety of singing, dancing and skits is being directed and produced by Jeff Risk and Mark Harville, who have had experience in the productions of "Up the Down Staircase", Finian's Rainbow" and "Diary of Anne Frank".

Plaza presents huge art show this weekend

The largest selection of fine art ever to be displayed in an outdoor setting, will be on view this weekend, June 5, 6 and 7, at the Campbell Plaza Shopping Center, Winchester and Budd avenues.

The Creative Artists Group under the direction of Bea Griffin, have indicated that art work of all kinds, including sculptures, potters, glass workers, ceramics, plaques, as well as the more familiar oils, water colors and acrylics, will be on display. Many of the artists will be on hand to present "Art in Action" demonstrations and all will be glad to talk about their work and the various techniques used.

Artists participating in groups will be recognized and receive an award for the best presented groups. Individual judging will be done by James Bradley, owner of the Master's International Gallery of Fine Arts in the plaza.

Artists from Campbell, Oakland, South San Francisco, San Francisco, Santa Cruz, Morro Bay, Martinez and Morgan Hill will all have their work on display, giving the local art show goer a good range of artistic selections to look over and compare.

Any artist interested in joining the Creative Artists Group Show may contact Mrs. Griffin.

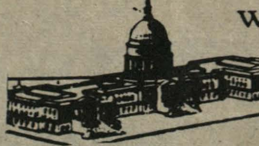
ON CAPITOL HILL



with "Charlie" Gubser

This week I introduced legislation to authorize standby price, wage, and rent controls. As a lifelong advocate of "laissez-faire" and a believer in the principle that a private enterprise system prospers inversely to the extent of government regulation, this was indeed a turnabout for me. But my action was necessary as a recognition that government, which in its essence is regulation, has become such a major influence on business that we can no longer validly claim to have a pure private enterprise economy. Unfortunately, the old rules are no longer applicable.

The anomaly of drastic inflation accompanied by increased unemployment, a near disaster in the stock market and soaring interest rates required strong medicine. I felt that the President should exert more leadership in getting industry, labor, and landlords to voluntarily restrain themselves and that the power to impose standby controls might spur him into assuming such leadership. As things stand now, I see no relief from inflation without government controls.

Government intervention has polluted pure private enterprise. In the decade of the '60's, the federal establishment created a deficit of $57 billion and caused nearly a $5 billion increase in interest on the national debt in three years. These deficits made government the principal competitor with private enterprise for mortgage money and other credit. They lead to tight money.

The economic "chickens" of the past decade have now come home to roost. And President Nixon is unfortunate enough to be the present keeper of the chicken house.

Though I am proud to say I have not been one of them, the majority in Congress engaged in a decade of wild, free spending which was undoubtedly prompted by political considerations. Then, when leadership in the White House passed from one party to the other, Congress did an about-face and engaged in a tax cutting spree last December. But spending as usual was not cut along with taxes.

Today, faced with a treasury deficit for this fiscal year, the President has been forced to request a gigantic $18 billion increase in the debt ceiling. The political wolves now howl loudly about his "fiscal irresponsibility" and ignore the truth stated so well in a recent WASHINGTON POST editorial: "....the need for an increase of at least $18 billion in the debt ceiling stems directly from the foolish pretense on Capitol Hill in the past that Congress can leave a gap between revenue and spending and then avoid the consequences by keeping a lid on the debt."

There can be little doubt that the influence of government on the private enterprise system has been overpowering. And as long as government violates every rule of sound business practice, the traditional precepts of private enterprise cannot be expected to operate normally.

This is why I have introduced legislation to create standby price, wage and rent controls. I wish it had not been necessary.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Al Salciccia

One of the zaniest games ever played in baseball history was in a minor league game in the Class A California League several years ago in which Fresno beat Modesto 22-19...Among the odd things that happened in this game, Modesto scored 12 runs in one inning, yet lost the game; the winning pitcher gave up 10 runs but the losing pitcher gave up only 7 runs; and the most effective pitcher in the game was an outfielder pressed into service on the mound!

Oddly enough, Hank Aaron has hit exactly 44 homers in four different seasons (1957-63-66-69), and his uniform number is – 44!

Here's a little-known fact about golfer Jack Nicklaus... Looking at Nicklaus, you'd never think he was a fast runner–but in high school he was on, of all things, the track team and he actually won 100 and 200-yard dashes in competition.

Bethel 174 enjoys active spring term

During the spring term, members of Bethel 174 of Campbell, International Order of Jobs Daughters, have enjoyed a heavy calendar of events including dinners, teas and trips.

In March three girls were initiated at the Exemplification ceremony held at Fraternity Lodge 393 San Jose. Welcomed were Kim Stromner, Meridith Morgan and Laurel Silver.

A spaghetti dinner was held in March for the Senior Princesses project and in April Bethel members attended church in a body at the First United Methodist Church of Campbell, followed by breakfast.

A Mother and Daughter tea in April found the Grange Hall in Campbell beautifully decorated with Japanese umbrellas, posters and quaint centerpieces on the small tables. At that time the Mothers, Club presented white Job Bibles to the senior and junior princesses.

A mystery trip to Frontier Village and a "Spring Fever" dance party; elections, and Youth Night were all held in May as well as the official inspection meeting of three Bethels was held.

The Sunnyvale Masonic Temple was the scene of the inspection meeting at which time Mrs. Lucy Warren and, Kermit Hallenbeck, gavel guardian, made their official visit to Bethels 298, 304 and 174. At the luncheon preceeding the meeting Nancy Vogel and Carolyn Antolin were initiated into the local Bethel.

The day was climaxed with an evening farewell meeting for the Honored Queen Sue McFarland followed by a party in her honor.

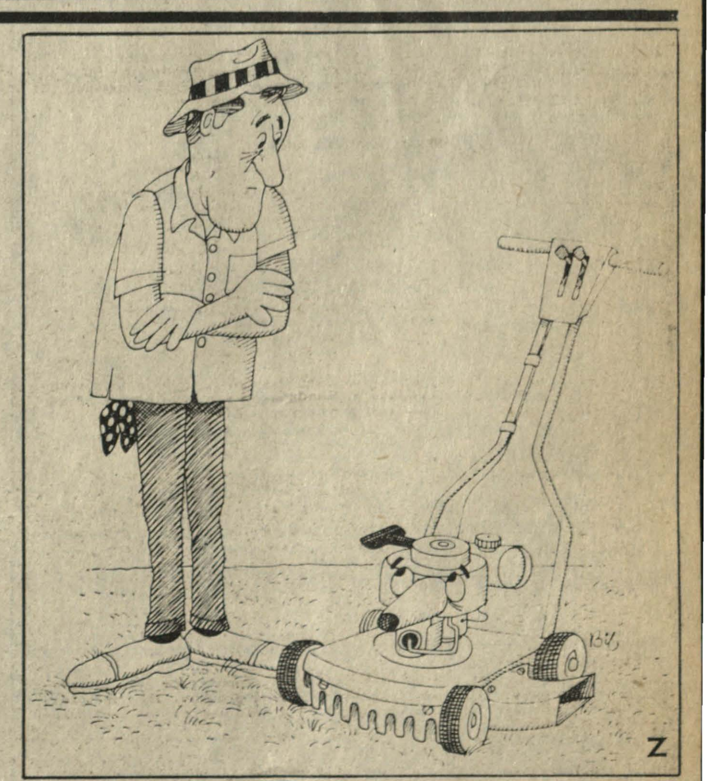
KNOW YOUR LAWN MOWER



NEW YORK (ED)—Ten fingers, ten toes . . . and ten rules to live by to keep them intact when power mowing your lawn: that's the lesson of the day, now that the season for lawn care is upon us.

The following is a power mower safety test prepared by safety experts of the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute.

Grade yourself severely. Anything short of 100 is a failing grade. And below 80 means you're risking good limbs with bad procedures or attitudes. Ready? Each true-false question rates ten points:

1. Once you've turned off the engine, it's all right to work on your mower.
2. It's always better to push than pull your mower.
3. In hot weather, always wear comfortable shoes like sneakers or sandals, to avoid tedium while mowing.
4. Mow steep slopes sideways with a walk-behind mower.
5. When using a riding mower, mow steep slopes up and down—in a vertical direction.
6. Never attempt to unclog your mower while it is running.
7. Keep tots and pets at least five feet from your mower when you're working on the lawn.
8. If you run out of gas, refill quickly so your engine will restart easily.
9. It's best to cut grass while wet or damp.
10. Mowing is a fine American pastime and one of the best ways for kids to pick up extra change.

Now for the answers:

1. FALSE. Always disconnect the sparkplug wire before attempting to work on an engine. The blade can start up on a touch, like a propeller. One turn, and real trouble.
2. TRUE. Pull your mower and you might pull it atop your foot.
3. FALSE. One mistake and a mower blade can cut through canvas or a flimsy piece of footwear. Wear good shoes—safety shoes are ideal.
4. TRUE. Up-and-down mowing with a walk-behind unit can cause you to slip down into the machine, or the mower to slip down on you.
5. TRUE. The rule for steep hill mowing is: With riding mowers—up-and-down; with walk-behind mowers sideways.
6. TRUE. One of the most frequently violated rules.
7. FALSE. Not far enough. Keep them out of the area entirely.
8. FALSE. Refuel your engine while it's hot and it might explode.
9. FALSE. Wet grass can cause you to slip and fall into your machine.
10. FALSE. A trick question, in a way. But we want to emphasize the point that power mowers can be too tough for a kid under 16.

Be honest now. Did you get them all right? If not, go back over the clinkers and make sure you've got them all down pat before venturing out to trim the lawn again.

WV ballet group recognized by association

The West Valley Ballet Company has been formally accepted as a member company of the Pacific Western Regional Ballet Association for Regional Ballet. Officers from the Association had evaluated and adjudicated the company in April, when it appeared in concert with the San Jose Symphony in one of their Symphony for Youth Concerts.

Association members are non - professional ballet companies who must present at least three performances each season. They exist to provide performing opportunities to aspiring young dancers, educational programs for their communities and at their Festivals a chance for composers, choreographers and designers to create new ballets.

The West Valley Ballet was formed in this area about 18 months ago. It is the only company in the San Jose area for ballet students to gain performance experience - there are many outlets for young musicians, singers and actors, but none for ballet dancers. Other nearby communities with member companies in the Regional Ballet Association are Sacramento, Fresno, San Mateo and San Joaquin.

Seniors to hear nutrition talk Sunday, June 7

On Sunday, June 7, at 2 p.m., Dr. Doris Constenius of the Santa Clara County Public Health Department, will give a talk on "Nutrition for the Older Person", at the West Valley Senior Action Center, 41 West Rincon Ave. The meeting is open to the public, and all persons who are caring for a senior citizen, or who are still able to cook for themselves, are invited to attend.

The Consumers' Exchange became a reality through contributions of funds from the Campbell Rotary Club; donation of planning from the Campbell Lumber Co., and a final okay from George Maxwell, Campbell fire chief.

The rummage sale held in May was a financial success, and an Open House held on May 24 culminated the month.

Additional volunteer drivers are needed for the "Mini-Bus" and any good driver who can donate hours, either morning or afternoon, are asked to call the Center, 378-5323.

Supervisors get "lean" budget of $188.4 million from Campen

County Executive Howard Campen placed before the Board of Supervisors this week a "lean budget" of $188,454,731, and a word of caution that it may be too lean.

He explained that it offers no new programs or services, and that he has cut to the bone requests for new employees in numerous departments. The printed budget is even 32 pages lighter than last year.

Also the proposed budget does not contain funds for a general salary increase for the County employees. Campen noted that the County is now negotiating with employee groups and the resulting costs may not be known for several weeks.

Because of this and the general difficulty in estimating the assessed valuation, Campen said he would not try to estimate a tax rate until the final budget hearings in July.

The budget is up nine per cent from the current year, the thinnest budget increase in several years.

The 1969-70 budget carried an increase of 11 per cent, and the 1968-69 budget had an increase of 23 per cent.

Campen warned, "It is my opinion that the amounts recommended are not adequate to maintain the current level of services."

Campen blamed much of the county's financial troubles on current economic conditions, which are forcing unemployed middle class families on to welfare, and State policies of pushing more medical care costs on to County property taxpayers.

Noting little chance of improvement, he said, "The estimated requiremetns for social service program in the new year are even greater than those indicated in my preliminary statement of April 9."

Campen also recalled that to avoid a tax increase last year the County delayed hiring many badly needed new employees until late in the year. These employees will be on the payroll for the full year in the new budget.

Campen told the Supervisors he had cut out 747 new jobs requested by various county departments in a strenuous effort to hold the line on costs. This will save $12,790,564.

Campen is recommending that 472 new employees be added. These will include 287 in Social Services (welfare), 30 in Mental Health, 21 in both the Sheriff's Office and Public Health, 15 in Adult Probation, 14 each for the District Attorney and Data Processing, nine for the Assessor, eight in Juvenile Probation, and 53 in other departments.

Among other new positions he refused to recommend, Campen had rejected 24 in the Sheriff's Office, 44 in Social Services, 32 in Adult Probation, 18 in Public Health, 31 for the Assessor, one on the Supervisor's staff, among others.

He indicated these were "necessary to the proper operation of the County" but that he was "not recommending because of financial limitations."

Campen said the County has "little or no control" over $5,718,833 it faces in new welfare or social service costs next year.

SCHOOL WINNERS --- First place award winners in the fifth through eighth grades at St. Lucy's school in their recent Science Fair were, standing, r. to l., Ann Hennessey, Sheila FitzPatrick, Marty McNiff, Jim Lucitt, Colleen McCarthy and Katie Monahan. Kneeling are Anthony Montalbano and Bernadette Sibban. On the right by herself is Denise Randall.

AWARD WINNERS---Dr. Wallace Hall, president of West Valley College, was the surprised recipient of a Distinguished Citizen Award at the May Santa Clara Chamber of Commerce Woman Volunteer of the Year luncheon.

ATHLETES FETED

West Valley College will honor outstanding spring athletes Wednesday night at the annual year-ending sports award banquet. Honored will be top-notch golfers, tracksters, baseballers, tennismen and swimmers from the Campbell College at the WVC sponsored dessert.

ALL-STATER

While the West Valley College golfers were lighting no fires as a team during the 1970 season, Dick Wilson, the Vikings number one swinging freshman, was raking in the individual link honors in junior college competition.

Wilson garnered All-Camino Norte Conference and All-State laurels with fine performances at both the CNC and California tournaments.

The Valley freshman ended 74-81–155 and tied with De-Anza's John Dunning for second at the second annual CNC Tourney. The Saratoga High product was also tabbed as the team's most valuable player.

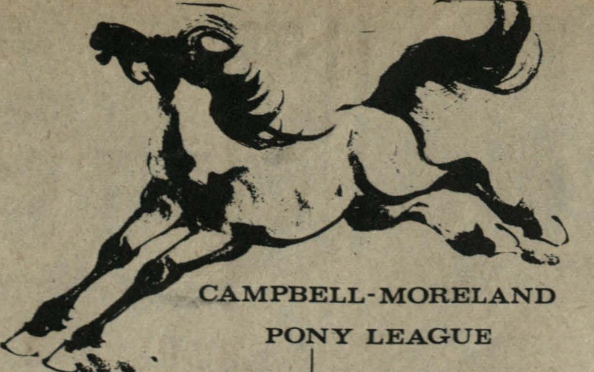
"RETURN OF THE VIKINGS"

The West Valley College footballers will accept a role next September that will be quite new to them – that of a conference defending champion. The Vikings, the number one squad in the state for three weeks last season, hope to put together back-to-back Camino Norte Conference titles as 29 returning lettermen will join the fold for 1970.

Heading the list of returners will be defensivemen Semon and Anderson and top notch wide receiver Loomis.

Loomis, Saratoga, was the team's leading pass catcher in their title year as he hauled in 33 aerials, missing the school record by one in his all-league year.

West Valley will open its season on September 17 as they play host to Ohlone at Buck Shaw Stadium. For the first time in the history of the school, Cabrillo is not on the WVC schedule. Replacing the Seahawks on the '70 line-up is Ventura College, hosting the Vikes on October 3.



CAMPBELL-MORELAND PONY LEAGUE

On Saturday, May 30, Gagliardi Bros. Yanks defeated Ron Rife Shell Giants to wrap up the first half championship in the Campbell-Moreland Pony League.

Standouts for the Yanks were Wayne Hagin, Jerry Buzzetta, Ken Pimentel and Craig Murata. For the Giants, Henry Egurrola, Joe von Herrmann and Mike Ucci also played an outstanding game.

Optimist Cubs beat Asquith Mets in another game by a score of 4-3. Fred Long of the Cubs threw a five hitter for his first complete game with Tony Barril hitting a home run for the Mets.

Play will continue every day until the end of the season, on July 4.

Letters to the Editor

TO STEP DOWN

Editor's Note: Thayer Lyons recently notified the City Council that he did not wish to be reappointed to the Planning Commission when his term expired in August. Thayer has served on the Commission since 1958 and has proved to be a conscientitious public servant of the highest caliber. He will be missed. We thought his letter to the City Council was worthy of publication.
--G.V.

To The Honorable City Council

Dear Sirs:

My appointment as a Planning Commissioner will expire after the regular meeting of Monday, July 20, 1970. I will not be seeking re-appointment. I am making this known to you at this time so that you can select a new commissioner who could be sworn in at the first meeting in August, enabling the commission to remain at full strength.

I would also like, at this time to thank you, past councilmen and the citizens of Campbell, for allowing me to share in the rewarding experience of actively taking part in the birth and growing pains of a new city. I assure you the experience has been one I will long remember.

When I stop and think of the caliber of the men with whom I have served over the years, I realize how fortunate the City of Campbell and I personally have been for the association of these men.

It is not my intention to quietly wander off to that "Graveyard for Ageing Planning Commissioners". I intend to continually be concerned about our city and to be of service when needed in other areas. I sincerely believe that the city will benefit from some new, young and vibrant personality on the Planning Commission.

Sincere wishes for continuing success,

Thayer D. Lyons
cc: Planning Commission

WVC schedules summer sessions

The 1970 summer session schedule for West Valley College was announced recently by Dr. Raymond T. McCall, dean of extended day and summer session at the college.

A variety of programs will be offered, ranging in length from two to 12 weeks. The regular six-week session will begin with registration on June 22 and continue until July 31.

Among the other varied length programs available this summer, are a six-weeks travel-study course in European art, a two-week course in institutional foods, a four-week course in medical assisting, and an eight-weeks advanced data processing course in cobol and fortran systems.

Those planning to enroll for the summer session are required to bring their social security card to the admissions and records office and obtain a priority card in advance of registration. Registration will take place at the Campbell campus during the morning and evening of June 22. Late registration will be held through June 24. Special registration for the travel-study tour must be completed before June 15, and for the institutional foods on or after June 15.

Enrollment in the summer session is open to all persons who qualify by age, residence in the district, and previous education to enter West Valley College.

Outdoor summer school opens

Some openings are still available in each of the three sessions of West Valley College's summer outdoor school.

The school is held each year at the Saratoga campus for children ages 9 to 12 to help them develop an understanding of the world of nature and to teach the children conservation and the art of outdoor living.

Each session will run daily from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for a two-week period, excluding weekends. The first session begins June 22 through July 3; the second from July 6 through July 17; and the third from July 20 through July 31.

Parents of interested participants should register their children at the Office of Community Services, 44 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell, room L-26, telephone 379-1733, ext. 58. A $20 fee is required.

WINNER---Honored as a winner in Bank of America's Achievement Awards program last week was Steven Borsgard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calmer S. Borsgard, 540 Sobrato Drive, Campbell. A senior at Campbell High School, Borsgard was awarded a $250 fourth place award in science and mathematics competition. Making the presentation at a banquet at the Del Monte Hyatt House was Robert W. Long, Bank of America senior vice-president. The local student's award is part of $158,-800 in no-strings attached cash awards being presented by Bank of America to outstanding high school seniors throughout California this Spring.
